

WHAT TO SEE IN THE WINTER

Toyon, sometimes called California Holly because of its bright red berries around the holidays, is an important food source for migrating and resident birds.

Ceanothus, or Wild Lilac is one of the first colorful bloomers in late winter, early spring. An important habitat plant for bees and other insects.